

Rethinking Economics, Ecology and Local Governance for the 21st Century

Free Public Seminar

Overview

As we face the growing impacts of climate change and environmental degradation, many people are asking how we can redesign human societies so that we live and thrive within the productive capacity of our 'natural resources'. The aim of this seminar is to stimulate new conversations about sustainability, economic wellbeing, law and governance, and help us explore positive ways forward in our most challenging times.

About the presenter

Dr Michelle Maloney (BA/LLB[Hons], PhD) is an environmental lawyer and governance expert, and Co-Founder of the New Economy Network Australia and Australian Earth Laws Alliance.

Session information

Tuesday 1 October, 6pm-7.30pm
Council Chambers, Margaret River, WA

Register at <http://rethinking-economics-and-ecology.eventbrite.com.au>

For more information contact Saul Cresswell at scresswell@amrshire.wa.gov.au

